An Interface So Real, You Won't Believe Your Eyes

What could be more instinctive as a basis for controlling your Savant SmartSystem than navigating through actual photos of the rooms inside your own home?

Pushing the Limits of the User Experience

Savant's Truelmage Control™ technology provides an innovative interface that allows you to touch actual images of smart home products to initiate commands. Simply touch the image of the actual light in the room you wish to control, and not only does the light in the room turn on/off or dim when pressed and held, but it also illuminates on the iPad® confirming the command.

Unleash your iPad®

Focusing on intelligent access to information and control, Savant's Truelmage technology provides a sense of familiarity that is seamless with the iPad® experience.

Pilot your Home's Environment

Navigating from room to room is easily accomplished by "pinching" the screen, resulting in the images of each room in the home to appear collectively. Tap on the desired room for immediate control access.
